CONTEXT

Name of Creator(s): The Moore family of Moynehall, county Cavan.

Biographical History: The Moynehall estate in county Cavan was granted by the Crown in 1629 jointly to Abigail Moigne née Dodd, widow of Thomas Moigne, Dean of St Patrick's Cathedral; her son Captain Roger Moigne; and her brother-in-law John Greenham. Three years later, Abigail and John released their right to and interest in the lands to Roger. When Roger was slain in the Siege of Drogheda in 1641, his three daughters became jointly entitled to the Moynehall estate. The eldest, Abigail, married Major Nicholas Moore and in 1698 settled her part of the Moynehall estate on her descendants. Samuel Moore the elder (d. 1848) was her great-great-grandson. He married Frances Nesbitt of the Lismore family in 1809. Their son Colonel Samuel Moore lived at Rockville and married his first cousin Louisa Nesbitt in 1849. They had an only child, Frances, who in 1883 married Captain Ernest Edward Cator Nevile of Yorkshire.

In 1794, the Moores leased Moynehall to Samuel Adams, whose descendants remained in possession until 1857, when the property was advertised for sale in the Encumbered Estates Court. In 1876, Moynehall belonged to John Fay. Today, it is home to the Backyard Arts and Cultural Centre.

CONTENT AND STRUCTURE

Scope and Content: The material consists of deeds, wills, marriage settlements, legal searches, statements, opinions, accounts and correspondence relating to the legal and administrative affairs of the Moore family of Moynehall, County Cavan. The materials are primarily concerned with Samuel Moore the elder and his younger son and namesake, who succeeded to the estate as a consequence of the untimely death of his elder brother. Of particular note is the material relating to the case of Moore v Jackson, which provides a good example of the complex set of procedures required to break an entail to facilitate the mortgaging of lands. Also of note are the copies of seventeenth- and eighteenth-century documents, the originals of which may no longer survive; and statements of title such as P15/1/2/1/1 which contain valuable genealogical information of the Moore family across three centuries.

Appraisal, Destruction and Scheduling Information: All records have been retained.

Accruals: No accruals are expected.

System of Arrangement: No original order was discernible at the time of cataloguing. The material is now arranged into five series by the family member to which the material primarily relates. Thus, Series 1 comprises materials related to Samuel Moore the elder, Series 2 to his eldest son Gerard Moore, Series 3 to his younger son Samuel Moore, Series 4 to his daughter Louisa Noble née Moore, and Series 5 to his granddaughter Frances Nevile née Moore. Within each series, material has been subdivided by the case or matter to which it relates and thereunder listed chronologically by date. Owing to the considerable complexity of the collection and the interconnectedness of its individual parts, it has not always been possible to successfully reconstruct each legal case. For example, the documents concerning the birth and marriage of Samuel Moore the younger (P15/3/1/1-4) were used as evidence in the land transaction between Moore and William Hague (P15/3/5/1/1-P15/3/5/3/7).
